Identity is the cornerstone for the building of trusted ubiquitous services delivered by the WEB and emerging cloud infrastructures. The simplest form of identity deals with login and passwords giving access to information and procedures. This conference welcomes all contributions and researches targeting Identity Management Systems (ISM) using full software cryptographic means, tamper resistant devices, token or electronics ID card. ISM may provide various functionalities like identity federation or single sign on. ISM are used for multiple purposes such as network access control, VPN, WEB applications, cloud computing.
