The Agora Initiative on Lifelong Learning is part of a process of revitalisation of the strategy of the International Federation for Information Processing (www.ifip.org). Taking into consideration the evolution of IFIP's work since 1960 there is a growing need of collaboration with partners (international bodies and institutions, industry and business, key decision makers, member societies). As we start moving from an informatics society to an information or knowledge society we see transversal themes emerging, that are not just technology based. Examples are the themes of Lifelong learning, Security and Trust, Ethics and Citizen Education that have been discussed at the Summit on the Information Society, both in Geneva and Tunis.
